

Little River Turnpike: Capital Beltway HOT Lanes

2nd Phase of interchange bridge construction to begin in April

The Capital Beltway HOT (High Occupancy Toll) Lanes will bring the most significant improvements to the Beltway since its opening in 1964. Construction of a new Little River Turnpike (Route 236) interchange is necessary to accommodate the four new Beltway lanes and will include bike and pedestrian access.

Phase 2 Work Begins in April

Once the new Little River Turnpike eastbound bridge over the Capital Beltway is completed, work will immediately begin on the new westbound bridge. All traffic (east and westbound) will be shifted to the new bridge so crews can begin nighttime bridge demolition of the two existing Little River Turnpike bridges. After the demolition is complete, crews begin building the new westbound bridge. The final phase of bridge construction is scheduled to be completed in October 2011.

Piers and abutment need to be removed to expand Beltway

Accelerated Construction Schedule

Clearing the Path for Beltway Widening

Construction crews will utilize an accelerated construction schedule for Phase 2 work by combining the original three phased plan to a two phased approach.

This new accelerated construction schedule will save up to six months off the interchange bridge construction at Little River Turnpike and finish the Beltway widening at this location up to a year ahead of schedule.

Traffic Shift – April 2010

East and westbound traffic on Little River Turnpike at I-495, will be shifted to the new bridge over the Beltway in April. Three eastbound lanes will be maintained on the Little River Turnpike bridge over the Beltway. For westbound travel, two through lanes will be maintained, but without the merge lane to enter/exit off the Beltway. Motorists exiting off I-495 North to Little River Turnpike westbound, will need to yield before merging onto the westbound lanes.

Traffic Shift: Shift east & westbound traffic to new bridge
